Annual Data User Conference Approaches

The 2019 Pennsylvania Data User Conference is just over a week away. This year's Keynote Speaker is Robert Isenberg, Market Research Division Chief at the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board (PLCB), who will highlight how PLCB continues to evolve its analytic capabilities to understand shifts in consumer tastes.

PA Data User Conference

May 9, 2019 | Penn State Harrisburg | pasdcconference.org

Drs. Emily Strohacker and Jennifer Gibbs will start the day with the Plenary Session, which will discuss Pennsylvanians' perceptions of human trafficking. Other sessions will feature how data and analysis are used to understand child welfare, the needs of individuals with Autism, the elected officials of small towns, and the spatial distribution of craft beer. Representatives of the U.S. Census Bureau will also be present to discuss the 2020 Census and other programs.

Neighboring Municipalities and Commuting Flows Visualization

Our Information Systems Intern, Tyler Guilford, created this interactive visualization to show patterns in the place of residence and place of work for Pennsylvanians. This visualization includes four categories which expand our understanding of commuter flows by considering those who work (or do not work) in a municipality that neighbors the municipality in which they live.
